

Southeast
Wisconsin

Festival of Books

University of Wisconsin-Waukesha

SEPTEMBER 20-22, 2013

Presented By

MILWAUKEE • WISCONSIN
JOURNAL SENTINEL
jsonline.com

What do Dakota the Owl and Kohl's Wild Theater have in common?

Your children will be able to see both of them free at the Festival. With a life-long passion for promoting environmental stewardship, Rebecca Mattano has teamed with another volunteer at the Wildlife in Need Center (WINC), Rebecca Seymour, to author Connecting with Wisconsin Wildlife. They will bring Dakota to the Festival and talk about how they wrote their book to inspire people of all ages to step outside and unearth a better understanding and appreciation for the wild wonders found right in their own backyards. From the Milwaukee County Zoo, Kohl's will transport its Wild Theater to provide delightful conservation-themed theater performances using drama, songs, and puppetry.

100 Authors and Presenters

Talks • Readings • Panel Discussions • Interviews • Cookbook Stage • Children's Program • Young Adult • Music • Exhibits • Book Sales and Signings • Food

Free Admission • Free Parking

www.sewibookfest.com

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-WAUKESHA • 1500 NORTH UNIVERSITY DRIVE • WAUKESHA, WI 53188

